Cripple Creek Turns Out to Search for a Lost Balloonist

Special to The Gazette.
CRIPPLE CREEK, July 4.—Up to a late hour tonight, citizens in automobiles and buggies, who were searching for a balloonist who made an ascension here at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, were unable to find him. The man, made a perfect ascension, and when several hundred feet in the air, made a parachute drop near Mount Pisgah, a short distance from the city. As he neared the ground, a gust of wind carried the parachute south, and he was lost to view and has not been seen since. His name is not known to the committee which engaged him for the Fourth of July program.

BULGARIAN FLOOD LOSSES ESTIMATED $20,000,000

PHILIPPOPOLES, Bulgaria, July 4.—The damage done by the recent floods is enormous. The monetary loss is estimated at $20,000,000. Many buildings were washed away by the rain-swollen streams and crops and market gardens were ruined in wide areas. Now a water famine threatens the city as the rains have been unseasonable and so taken apart that a month will be occupied with their repair. The inhabitants of many villages in the south of Bulgaria have sought refuge in the mountains.

LATE CORONATION FUNCTION

LONDON, July 4.—One of the last functions of the coronation season was the reception last night given by John Hays Hammond, the special ambassador from America and Mrs. Hammond at Stratton house. It was the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Hammond to give this reception during the former's official tenure, but all the days were so crowded that no opportunity was found until last night.

Richard Parr, deputy surveyor of the port of New York for the United States customs department, whose testimony is expected to develop a story dramatic and romantic when he relates his evidence in the sensational jewelry smuggling case involving Mrs. Helen D. Jenkins of New York and several aged millionaire admirers. Parr, who first won his spurs in the famous sugar investigations of the government, has been through the greatest center of wit and influence of his career as a secret investigator in tracking the alleged frauds of the Jenkins jewels, valued at $300,000, and is not yet allowed from America and Mrs. Hammond loved constantly by a swarm of detectives employed by Mrs. Jenkins' friends and he had to fight every inch of the ground against odds to obtain necessary evidence.

GRAND JUNCTION, July 4.

Fresh air and plenty of Colorado sunshine for Massachusetts girls who will be brought here at the expense of Beatrice Farnham Otto, the artist wife of John Otto, the hermit of Colorado National Monument park, is the latest philanthropic scheme of this big-hearted and eccentric couple.

They plan a sanatorium in Monument canon for poor factory girls and girls who have contracted tuberculosis in the slums and tenement houses of Boston.

Mrs. Otto was originally a Boston girl, but came west several years ago to paint pictures of western life, and since that time has never gone back to her home except for a visit. She has become wealthy through her art work and is still working on pictures which have been contracted for at high prices.

She will leave soon for Boston, where she will select a party of 20 girls to bring to Colorado. This will be in the nature of an experiment, and if it proves a success, she will bring more to the land of sunshine. The girls will live in tents and Mrs. Otto will watch over them. They will be instructed in sewing and cooking, for, in addition to being an artist and philanthropist, Mrs. Otto is an excellent housekeeper. They will be allowed to make fancy work and Indian baskets under the direction of their matron and these will be sold to help pay the expenses of the colony.

As to religious training, the girls will be allowed to remain true to the teachings of their parents, if they have any. If not, they will be given a chance to grow up under the queer and beautiful teachings of Mrs. Otto's own religion.

The girls will remain under the guidance of the artist until they have regained their health and are enabled to earn their own way in the west.

"If the poor dears ever get into Colorado," declares Mrs. Otto, "they will never return to the east, for here they are treated on the same level as men, and have a chance to make a good living. I shall take few girls under 18, and prefer to install none over 21 in my sanatorium. Girls under 16 are too hard to manage, and those over age are too set in their ideas to lend themselves to any healthful change."

My pets will be instructed in the use of the ballot box and will be able to go out through the state when their health is restored and rival any man in the selection of public officers and in the running of political conventions.

BOULDER, Colo., July 4.

An ideal automobile road from the end of Boulevard F, Denver, leading through Boulder and Lyons to Estes park, will have the finishing touches put to it when the Boulder Motor club completes erecting its sign posts next Thursday, according to Secretary Frank Eckel of the Boulder Commercial association.

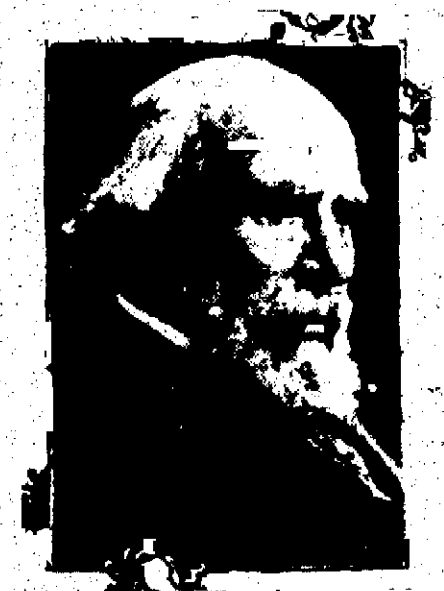

The work being done on this road is a part of a movement in progress here to induce the visitors to Estes park to make the trip through Boulder.

The Union Pacific has taken under advisement the plan of making Boulder a common passenger point, and if this is done it is believed that many Eastern tourists will come to Boulder and go from here to Estes park by way of Boulder, rather than follow any other route. And it is also expected if the Union Pacific accedes to the wishes of the Boulder business men in this matter that there will be a great influx of visitors and investors in this city and to Boulder county.

Boulder, according to Secretary Eckel, is the nearest railroad point to Estes park. At present the trip from here to the famous park in Larimer county is a little over forty miles by auto, and when the cut-off at present planned is completed, Boulder will be thirty-two miles from Estes park.

It is planned, after quick auto communication between here and the park is established, to continue the road on to Allens park, in Boulder county.

The sign posts which the Motor club is putting up are metal, set in cement, at every crossroad. On a red background are painted in white letters the names of all the towns and points of interest in the neighborhood, with arrows pointing the direction of their location and figures indicating the number of miles distant.

NAPOLION'S BIRTHPLACE

Empress Eugenie to Found Museum in Ajaccio.

The Empress Eugenie, a French contemporary says, intends to set up a small museum in the house at Ajaccio where Napoleon was born. At present, United States Steel corporation, who in spite of the fact that there is little testified before the Smelter steel trust enough to attract, no visitor to the investigating committee of the House town falls to make a pious pilgrimage yesterday.

to the house, says the Westminster Gazette.

With its green window shutters and yellow painted front there is nothing to distinguish it from the neighboring houses except a marble slab, announcing the birth on August 15, 1769 of the man who afterward became Napoleon I. The best preserved room in the building is that which Napoleon, then a young and unknown officer, used to occupy when he visited his family at holiday time.

STREET CAR STRIKE TIES UP MEXICO CITY TRAFFIC

MEXICO CITY, July 4.—Persons who reside in the outskirts of the city and the suburbs came to business today in improvised vehicles of every sort. The street car strike declared at noon yesterday was on in full blast.
None of the 1,500 strikers reported for work. No effort was made to operate the street cars, though it was stated by the company officials that a service might be resumed before night. At the company's offices it was declared that enough men could be mustered for that purpose.
Lack of transportation interfered to some extent with the Fourth of July celebration at the edge of the town. The city was patrolled by squads of mounted police which kept the crowds moving.

HIS MONEY RETURNED AFTER 12 YEARS

From the Philadelphia Record.
Levi Stuck, a farmer, residing on the outskirts of Northumberland, lost or was robbed of his pocketbook 12 years ago, while he was riding on a train near Canton, O. Mr. Stuck thought that he was permanently separated from his purse and forgot the incident. One day last week he was surprised by a package of registered mail, and when he opened it found his long-lost pocketbook. Eleven dollars, the amount in the purse at the time, was found, together with interest on the money for 12 years and a note which read as follows: "This money did me a lot of good, but take better care of your money in the future."

Mrs. Imogene Paul, superintendent of street cleaning in the Tenth district of Chicago, has invented a device for the disposal of paper and other refuse which, it is claimed, will save the city $100,000 annually. The invention is an incinerator for burning like refuse, and it is taken up.

SEATTLE, July 4.—Patrolman H. L. Harris, in attempting to arrest a pickpocket in a downtown street here, was shot through the head and killed by a supposed accomplice of the thief. Both men escaped. Harris is the third policeman killed in Seattle in as many months. The assassination was witnessed by thousands of people, who ran for cover or stood dazed, as Harris, with a bullet in his head, lay on the sidewalk, shooting in the direction from which the shot came.

NO CLUE SECURED AS TO SLAYER OF PRISONER

GLOBE, Ariz., July 4.—Today brought no developments in the search for the murderer of Kingsley Olds, who was killed before dawn yesterday as he lay in his cell in the county jail by a shot fired from a window of the county court house adjoining the jail. The murderer as he left the court house, was seen by several men, none of whom would admit to the police today that they knew him. Wesley Goswick, father of the two girls Olds was accused of drowning while bathing with them in Salt river on June 22, could not be found today, although for the past week he had been seen daily in the vicinity of the jail. The murder of Olds had been carefully planned. He was in the hospital of the jail suffering from a bullet wound inflicted in an attempt to commit suicide, and the window of the judge's room from which the shot was fired was the only place from which the cell could be seen from the outside.

BLOW UP POSTOFFICE SAFE

SANTA ROSA, Cal., July 4.—Blowing in quick succession the safes of the postoffice and the merchandise store of Frank L. Pool in the town of Windsor, 10 miles north of here. A gang of crackmen early today made what is believed to have been heavy hauls and cleared after an exchange of shots with a policeman and several citizens. Stamps from the postoffice safe formed a considerable part of the robbery loot, the exact amount of which has not yet been learned. Police are searching the surrounding country for the thieves.

ANSWER

Canadian government. It is said that this kind of reciprocity is not Republican reciprocity.
It is said this reciprocity covers competitive products of each country and that the reciprocity of former Republican leaders was intended to include only a lowering or abolition of duties on products or other countries which did not compete with products of this country.

Therefore, it is said, that the Canadian reciprocity as now proposed is nothing but a Democratic measure, reducing or abolishing the tariff on goods or products from Canada that compete with those raised by our own people, and that it is especially injurious because it is so drawn as prejudicially to affect the farmers of the country as a class.

The Republican party in their last national platform declared in favor of tariff duties which would measure only the difference in the cost of production of articles here and of articles abroad. In other words, the sound Republican doctrine has become the impossible of duties, only where the conditions are naturally unequal, and where duties are necessary in order to enable our manufacturers and other producers to meet on a level the competition of foreign producers. The Canadian reciprocity measure squares exactly with this doctrine.

Another Answer.

Another answer to the objection of Republican leaders who denounce Canadian reciprocity as a betrayal is that the amount of competition which is to take place in our markets between Canadian products and those of the United States under this agreement is very much less than they would be by their general statements have you believe. In the first place, they say that by free trade in agricultural products we are giving them a market of 90,000,000 people and taking only a market of 2,000,000 people for the same things, and that necessarily they derive greater advantages. As a matter of fact, in the vast bulk of our agricultural products, they can furnish no competition whatever, while this agreement admits all our products free into Canada.

It is said that this Canadian reciprocity agreement is made wholly at the expense of the farmers and only in the interest of those who would have farm products at a less price, to wit: The wage earners of the large cities. It is my own judgment that the reciprocity agreement will not greatly reduce the cost of living, if at all. It will, however, steady prices by enlarging the reservoir of supplies for those things that are raised in both countries and it will make more remote the possibility of cornering commodities and extorting excessive prices for them from the public.

It is a mistake to say, however, that this agreement is not in the interest of the farmers. Let us examine the statistics and see. The free list is made up almost entirely of agricultural products. The amounts of exportation from this country to Canada at present in the things covered and affected by the reciprocity agreement was for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1910, $48,000,000 and the duties paid on those articles was something more than $7,500,000. The exportation of these same articles into Canada for the year ended March 31, 1911, was $64,000,000 and the duties levied and collected were $10,500,000. The increase in other words, was about $16,000,000 a year, and the additional duties collected was about $2,700,000.

What Figures Show.

There seems little doubt that for the current year the United States trade covered by reciprocity will reach $70,000,000 and the duties collected will be not less than $4,000,000 under the agreement. What I wish to call your attention to is that of this remission of approximately $3,000,000 at present in the things covered and affected by the reciprocity agreement, the imports into Canada from the United States if the reciprocity agreement had been in effect, a little less than $2,000,000 would have been on agricultural products.

The truth is that when the complaint is made on behalf of the farmer that the price of wheat will be reduced to 10 cents a bushel, the argument is that this cannot be, for the price of wheat in the United States and in Canada both, is ultimately fixed by the price of wheat in the world, and that the world's price is determined by the relation and supply by the relation and supply for it by countries which do not raise enough to supply their people.

It may be that the free admission of wheat from the United States into Canada will increase to some extent the price to the Canadian farmer, but it will not decrease the price paid to the American farmer because it will not decrease the demand upon the American farmer for his wheat. The diversion from British and European markets to the markets of the United States of 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat annually would not only strengthen the wheat market abroad, but would furnish the American mills with a needed complement of wheat which the world would require just as it has in the past, but it would be in the shape of American made flour. The effect of the increased wheat supply would be to reduce the cost of manufacturing flour and the ratio that the mills were able thereby to increase their output.

Would Increase Foreign Trade.

This reduced cost of production would enable the mills to realize in the foreign market the $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 barrels of flour sold in foreign trade annually in years ago, but which in recent years has fallen to less than $2,000,000. The American grain, which would not be depressed in value in the slightest, but on the contrary, because of increased marketing facilities and fuller time of sale, the mills would be in better position to take increased quantities of American grain.

Wherever the probable course of trade under reciprocity is analyzed as to its effect on farm products in which Canada can compete, the conclusions vary only slightly from those reached with respect to wheat. As a whole, and note the next most important article likely to enter into our international exchange under reciprocity, the quality of the Canadian products will command them in our use. Their appearance in the American market may cause their substitution to some extent for our own similar products, but such substitution would mean just so much elimination of Canada's products from the markets of the world. When placed in the field and the supply for this purpose would most naturally come from the United States, thus enlarging our own foreign outlet for those grains. I am most earnestly hopeful that the Canadian reciprocity agreement will pass the Senate and be approved by the Canadian parliament. I am hopeful of this, not for political reasons, because the reciprocity and the credit for it will not be wholly with any one political party. The Democrats of the House and the Democrats of the Senate should have their full measure of praise for its adoption should it become a law.

The present treaty looks to relieving the business of the United States with Canada by lifting a burden of nearly $4,000,000 as a customs tax on our exports to Canada, and a consequent great increase in those exports. It looks to the introduction of products which we need in this country. It will add greatly to the prosperity and growth of Canada, and as Canada knows her consuming power becomes greater and our trade with her will necessarily increase.

Such a result by such a method under such conditions is according to good Republican doctrine and I urge to ask the support of an intelligent, progressive organization like this in aligning the whole Republican party in its support.

NEVER LOSE THEIR CHARM

The Lovely Gardens of Louis XIV Delightful in Many Ways.

From Scribner's Magazine.
The gardens of Louis XIV, the Gallic Apollo, will always hold an imperishable charm, a complexity of appeal, quite apart from the history that may there be studied with unusual facilities by the scholar, and the works of art that the true amateur must cherish. Not that these are by any means small factors in the very quality of which I speak, but they are only a part, some of the subtle essences that go to the making of the perfume which today in the gardens of the Bourbons, ravishes the soul.

It is true that many of the ancient glories of the gardens are as dead as the glories of Nineveh. No longer does the grotto of Thetis exist, the grotto of a thousand echoes, where a multitude of mirrors repeated in broken fashions the loveliness of women and falling waters, giving an effect of beauty powdered into diamond brilliants and held in the hand. The incomparable labyrinth of Le Notre is destroyed, and much has fallen into a decay that is a reproach to France.

Perspectives have been lost by the improper planting of trees, and many a green space carpet is missing to give the required approach and prestige to a sculptured group, whose fine marble is left to crumble.

Upon all that has gone one may dwell in contemplative regret and in anger at the hand of the iconoclast, yet to the tower of deeper values there remains all that the heart most desires: possibly the very ravages of time and the violence of men give an added precious touch treasured by the dreamer of dreams, even as one looks at an old and lovely face over which life's griefs and errors have passed, and finds its appeal deep and gripping to the heart.

The story whose ending is so tragic-sweet begins as with a breath from the very youth of the world, flavored with the tang of knightly journeyings and the sound of the huntsman's horn in the depths of the forest; all that colorful old-world life in a land full of sunshine and flowers is flung like some gorgeous decoration across the years till, hold the evolution of Versailles.

South America

South America, about 185,000,000 people, has devised a plan by which the Boy Scouts can help the blind. He has arranged daily readings in the library from the great works of literature. Such readings, of course, are especially helpful to persons who, for various reasons, are unable to read.

Hadley learned that there were several hundred blind folks in Denver, and he wanted them to enjoy the hour of reading. Accordingly, he arranged with the Boy Scouts to escort the various blind folk to the library each day and then take them home. The boys have entered heartily into this sublimity, and, as a result, have given happiness to hundreds of folk.

Upon all that has gone one may dwell in contemplative regret and in anger at the hand of the iconoclast, yet to the tower of deeper values there remains all that the heart most desires: possibly the very ravages of time and the violence of men give an added precious touch treasured by the dreamer of dreams, even as one looks at an old and lovely face over which life's griefs and errors have passed, and finds its appeal deep and gripping to the heart.

The story whose ending is so tragic-sweet begins as with a breath from the very youth of the world, flavored with the tang of knightly journeyings and the sound of the huntsman's horn in the depths of the forest; all that colorful old-world life in a land full of sunshine and flowers is flung like some gorgeous decoration across the years till, hold the evolution of Versailles.

Women's Secrets

There is no use in the United States who has heard more women's secrets than any other country. The secrets are not secret, of course, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and a protection of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that nearly eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely cured. Such a record would be a credit to the cases treated and numbered by hundreds only. But that that record applies to the treatment of more than 2,000,000 women in a practice of over 40 years, it is plain. And, further, Dr. Pierce is the doctor who has cured more specialists in the treatment of women's ailments than any other doctor in the world.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely free of charge. All replies are mailed, and are promptly given. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Medical Department, World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

King and Queen Review an Army of Boy Scouts

WINDSOR, England, July 4.—King George, accompanied by Queen Mary and surrounded by a brilliant staff of distinguished officers of the navy and with other members of the royal family reviewed in Windsor Great park today an army of 35,000 Boy Scouts gathered from all parts of the United Kingdom and from some of the colonies. Drawn up in a huge semicircle in front of the royal inclosure, the boys, dressed in the universally adopted scouts uniform of blue khaki hats and brilliant neckerchiefs of various hues, formed a picture. They were formed in right divisions, the place of honor being occupied by 2,000 Kings Scouts who were selected from the various troops as the most efficient and made a guard of honor for the king. Just behind these were posted 120 life-savers, all of whom have been decorated for life-saving. As his majesty came onto the parade grounds, the band of one of the guards regiments struck up the national anthem and the scouts stood at the salute with their staves, while they sang the first verse of "God Save the King." Then the king rode along the lines closely inspecting the boys.

Lieutenant General Sir Robert Baden Powell, the chief scout, was in command, and as his order to patrol of the selected King's Scouts gave an exhibition of fire-lighting and ambulance work. After this, when the king had taken up his position opposite the center of the semicircle, there was a wild scene as the entire army of boys at the sound of the "scout's call" charged at full speed toward him, each of the patrols shouting its own peculiar call as it advanced. Then the "alert" sounded and, like clockwork they all stood still and silent for a few moments to enable them to recover their breath after which they sang in wonderful unison two of their popular scout choruses.

The king then expressed his gratification at the success of the movement to its organizer, General Baden Powell.

Thousands of boys had traveled through the night in order to be present and after a short rest will start for home again this evening. Many of the others had camped out in the park, for which purposes they had brought their own tents with them. On this occasion the war office officially recognized the movement by sending two superior officers of the general staff to superintend the day's ceremony.

MANITOU DEPARTMENT

QUIET FOURTH HERE

According to old residents, yesterday was the quietest Fourth celebrated here in many years. Otherwise than a few small fire crackers, very little noise was heard in town. Large numbers of people went up into the mountains, and picnic parties were seen in every desirable place for some distance around.

FREE POSTAL LIKELY

In all probability Manitou will have free postal delivery next year. To acquire this the sale of stamps must reach the $10,000 mark, and as the sale for June this year is $300 in excess of that of last June, the outlook is favorable. Only $840 was lacking last year, and Postmaster Grafton announced that he is going to make the mark this year.

MANITOU NEWS NOTES.

Miss Lucy Stewart, who was taken suddenly ill at the cottage with cholera, has been removed to Glickman sanatorium for treatment.

The Misses Davidson, Cockran and Redmond have been added to the postal force for the summer, as has been the custom for a number of years. Regular holiday hours were in effect yesterday.

St. Andrew's Episcopal church will be in charge of the Rev. Appleton Grannis, rector of the Holy Apostles church of New York, September 16. Special music will be given throughout the summer months.

J. L. Turner of the Richardson and Turner grocery, recently sold his half interest to J. D. Richardson, who is to take sole possession immediately. Sam Turner will remain as clerk and J. L. Turner will enter the employ of A. M. Wilson.

Three hundred fifty feet of new fire hose, six fireman's coats and 12 respirators were ordered at a recent meeting of the volunteer firemen, and the order is expected to be filled next week. This equipment will place the fire department in position to do the plungering squirrels. Then came a change, the robins taking the initiative, and instead of allowing the squirrels to drive them from their nests, the mother robin now gives a distress call and from trees around 20 to 30 robins answer and surround her. They pounce on the squirrels right and left, picking at the animal's eyes, until it rushes away, squealing, to safety. Other birds, following the good example, are developing strong belligerent tendencies.

LOW SEEKS INJUNCTION TO KEEP NAME OFF BUILDING

NEW YORK, July 4.—Former Mayor Seth Low has brought injunction proceedings against a real estate firm which calls itself the "Sethlow Realty company," to prevent the company from using the name "Sethlow" for an apartment building which overlooks the campus of Columbia university, of which Mr. Low was at one time president. In his affidavit the former mayor says:

"I was graduated from Columbia university in 1870, became president of Columbia in 1890, and served until 1901. Since my retirement from the presidency my relations with Columbia university have been most cordial. I am now a trustee of the university. The respect of all the students and other persons connected with the university is a matter of concern to me."

Charles A. Capron, a law clerk, supports former Mayor Low's proceeding with an affidavit that some of the Columbia students have wondered recently whether Mr. Low was financially interested in the apartment and whether Columbia's former president was trying to let apartments to students.

ATWOOD TERMINATES Third Leg Boston Washington Flight

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 4.—Harry N. Atwood, the aviator after fighting heavy winds throughout his flight from New York, terminated the third leg of his proposed journey from Boston to Washington by landing in his biplane on the beach front. During the flight, Atwood made three landings for gasoline, one near Asbury Park, the second at Tuckertown, N. J., and the third at Venice park, near here.

He said judging from the amount of gasoline he used, he must have traveled at least 250 miles. He was in the air more than five hours. The distance along the coast is about 115 miles.

"I feel too tired to attempt the trip to Washington tonight," the birdman said. "My route and time of starting will depend entirely on conditions tomorrow. I hope to start before 10 o'clock in the morning."

"The only trouble I had was with my gasoline supply. After I left Governors Island, I headed along the coast. As I neared Asbury Park the gasoline was low, so I landed. "Here I took on five gallons of gasoline. My tank holds 15 gallons but I thought the five would be sufficient. As the wind seemed to be losing its force,

"When I rose again I tried a higher altitude in the hope of finding quieter currents. The wind was stronger if anything, so I took a traveling altitude of about 1,500 feet."

Autoist Helps Him Out. "I experienced little trouble until I neared Tuckertown. Here the gasoline went dry again. I had considerable difficulty in spotting a landing place, but finally decided in a little clearing. I borrowed five gallons of gasoline from the owner of an automobile and made a good getaway."

"It was the flight to the outskirts of the city that I had my hardest fight to keep in the air. The velocity of the wind here was the strongest of the trip. It took me until almost 3 o'clock to make the last 17 miles."

"The wind grew more treacherous as I swung up to Venice park on the outskirts of Atlantic City. I encountered air bumps and air holes that made the going more difficult. To make matters worse, my gasoline ran out again."

"I came down, narrowly missing disaster when a puff of wind caught the plane about 100 feet from the ground. I was almost thrown from my seat as the wind got under the wings again when I struck the ground."

"I felt the shock, but found my machine undamaged, and continued, after taking on more gasoline. When I cleared out over the ocean I found the currents the most stable of my flight and made a successful landing in Atlantic City."

Mr. Atwood will be the guest of the Atlantic City Aero club over night.

Washington Prepares Welcome. WASHINGTON, July 4.—Assured that Harry N. Atwood, the young Boston aviator, who started from New York for Washington today, would arrive tomorrow, the capital prepared tonight to receive him when he alighted. The plans are to have Atwood alight in the ellipse behind the White House. Atwood is to use the Washington monument as a guiding mark and several thousand square feet of dazzling white canvas will be spread on the lawn nearby to mark the place for his descent. The ellipse will be thoroughly polished, and everything will be done to protect the crowd, expected to gather.

Atwood is said to plan the sale of one of his types of machines to the government and probably will give exhibitions before members of Congress as well as undertake the instructive flights at the Army aviation grounds.

"AND ONLY MAN IS VILE"

From the London Chronicle. Shiraz, now seething with angry anti-British passions, sleeps in the heart of one of the four Persian paradises—its birthplace of Haffs and Sadi. This ancient capital of Persia, although lying in a valley, is yet as high above the sea as Ben Nevis itself. Outside of the City of Passion are some of flowers and rest. The narcissus spreads itself like a white carpet over the sunny slopes.

"All our party," writes a traveler, "pushed into this rich pasture up to the horses' girths to enjoy the fragrance as much as possible." The only way to banish the all-embracing narcissus is to sow the ground with cotton, rice or wheat. Let the ground lie fallow, and along comes the beautiful white tyrant from the "Isle of Flowers."

What the Press Agents Say

"THE TRANSGRESSOR" TODAY

The second matinee performance of "The Transgressor" will be given at the Opera House this afternoon by the Theodore Lorch Stock company. The same play will be given at the Opera House tonight and tomorrow night. "The Transgressor" is a strong, modern drama in five acts. The entire company is seen to excellent advantage. Regular prices prevail for all performances.

A unique scenic effect is shown in the second scene of the first act. The stage represents a scene at the foot of the Rocky mountains. At the back there is a steep cliff from which there is a sheer drop of several hundred feet. Towards the end of the act a train passes at the bottom of this canon. The train cannot be seen from the auditorium of the theater but so realistic is the staging of the effect that one gets the full effect of a real train. The light of the engine is seen as the train winds around the curves. In the canon and finally the smoke of the engine rises from the canon below and fills the top of the gorge. The noise is wonderfully true and as the hero jumps over the cliff to catch the train in which he hopes to make his escape the atmosphere becomes so realistic that the auditors hold their breath for fear the man may miss the train and be crushed to death.

Commencing Friday night with performances Saturday afternoon and night Augusta Evans' ever popular romance "St. Elmo" will be revived. Seats may be secured now for the night performance. "St. Elmo" is so well known that it is not necessary at this late date to tell the story of this work which as a novel and as a play has entertained millions of people. Cecil Fay will be seen as Edna Earle and Theodore Lorch as St. Elmo Murray. The same scenic production which was used last year will be used this season.

WHAT THEY WHISPER ABOUT BRUCE MORGAN

What people whisper is not always the kind of stuff to put into print, but in the case of Bruce Morgan, though he might not like it, there is no reason why people should not be tipped off, so that when they see him they will be able to form their own opinions. Bruce Morgan, he is known, is a London music hall star, and of the first magnitude. In fact, if he had not been on this side of the water when the big doings came off a few days ago he would have probably been called on along with scores of other shining lights in the theatrical firmament to appear before the king.

But as it was, Morgan was out in San Francisco about that time, playing a little engagement called for by a six months' contract with the Sullivan and Considine circuit to give American audiences a taste of the light fantastic as it is done in London. And in the natural course of events he drifted eastward until just at the present writing he is right here in Little London, where it is particularly fitted that he is getting a cordial welcome. It is unnecessary to add that he is appearing at the Majestic theater, for wherever high-class vaudeville is mentioned that means staidly.

But to get back to what they whisper. Morgan, with his troupe of Pleading Johnnies—and they are straight from Pleading—offers a dancing act that is something different, and individually he performs some pedantic gyrations which remind one more of a buzz saw than anything else. He can make his feet move so fast that you can hardly tell whether they are going or coming, and what they whisper around the stage entrance is that just before every performance Morgan goes to Senator Salombo and has the latter give him a dose of 300,000 high pressure electricity. This may or may not be true, but after you have seen Morgan you could easily believe it.

Incidentally the Salombo with their wonderful electrical demonstrations, including Billy Tink, the black face scream, Bloom Robinson, the girl with the mirror dress, "Twins," a fine motion picture drama, a motion picture comic also, and the concert orchestra program are other features which make this week's bill a cracker-jack.

It costs only 10, 20 or 30 cents. Performances at 7:30, 9:30 and 11:30.

THE WORLD FAMOUS WILLIAMS' JUMBLE SINGERS

Temple theater, July 7, auspices People's M. E. church. In presenting this company to the public the management has made special effort to have a high moral as well as a musical standard. Therefore, our members have been selected from the best Christian homes and have been trained in some of America's best schools; Rust university of Mississippi, Knoxville college and Elk university of Tennessee, and Oberlin college of Ohio, are represented in our company.

The quartet is a special feature and is always a favorite. The prima donna was trained by one of the best instructors of Chicago, she has a lyric voice possessing the flute quality, which is classed by the European masters as being the rarest and most beautiful. The colored race has produced few singers as great as she.

The contralto has been a student at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music. She possesses a rich and charming voice of great depth and power, which has won her many admirers.

The soprano is worthy of special mention. Her remarkable talent is quickly recognized and appreciated by music-lovers everywhere.

The pianist is an experienced accompanist of great natural ability. She also has a rich mezzo-soprano voice.

For several seasons we have made return dates, and every season our audiences are larger and the circle of our personal friends is wider. Another cause of our great popularity is the fact that we have the same personnel. The entire company is composed of a double quartet; that is, a ladies' quartet and a male quartet, and our selection of songs varies from the opera to the negro boat and cabin songs.

To years of constant devotion to our life's work in the United States and Canada, we have added a year of travel and study in England, Scotland, Wales, Holland, Belgium, Germany and France. We were 18 weeks in London where we gave 130 performances, singing in many of its best known theaters, among which was the world famous Coliseum. While in London the entire company was under the instruction of one of the world's greatest vocal teachers—Miss Ira Aldridge who is a scholar of the London Royal Conservatory of Music, and whose early teacher was the famous Jennie Lind. This experience added to natural talent and former years of faithful application enhances the ability of each individual singer and has produced in our case a remarkable musical combination. The company is now stronger than ever and we are glad to be again touring America—our native land. Admission 50c and 35c.

IN TROUBLESOME KENTUCKY

From the Mayfield, Ky. Ledger.

That a county judge has his trials, troubles, tribulations and perplexities is self-evident, if the following original and unique communication received by Judge Rice recently may be taken as a criterion:

"Mayfield, Ky.—Dear Judge: I want to write to you and tell you about Ches. Rees, he's built a wire fence rite on the pike and Absalom Pike, he's got a wire on top with horns and stickers on it, women hook their hats on it, men tear their clothes on it, Sunday clothes, for I wore my best britches today on it, seems like you ought to do something about it. Mr. Rees has got plenty, but he wants the earth. Yours,

"JOHN J. JENKINS."

Young Mothers

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both she and her coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the time. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby too is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend. It is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

How Much Traffic Passes Given Point?

College Students Will Gather Statistics

To determine the amount of traffic passes over a given area in a king day of 12 hours, the students of the class on roads and pavements Colorado college, under the direction of Prof. George E. Martin, will be a census of the vehicles that pass on Tejon street between Huerfano and Pikes Peak avenue on Tuesday and Thursday.

A census of all vehicle traffic will be made in the hours of 7 a.
and 7 p. m. on the second census
be taken at 1 p. m. on the 12th and 13th of April. The census will show the direction of traffic during the day and throughout the year with considerable accuracy. Estimates will also be made of the number of pounds passing over pavement and the figures will be used over to the street department determining methods of cleaning repaving the streets. The results will be turned over to B. A. Briggs, superintendent of the street department.

Similar counts have been made in many eastern cities and in Europe and have been found of great value in determining the best type of pavement for city streets. There was talk of a census here before the asphalt paving was laid two years ago, but it was not made because of the expense. The results of the census may be used as a guide for the improvement of Colorado avenue, which is paved with asphalt.
The form of the blank to be used in making the census will be as follows:

Huerfano and Pikes Peak avenue.

To the Housewife.

Madam, if your husband is like most men he expects you to look after the health of yourself and children. Coughs and colds are the most common of the minor ailments and are most likely to lead to serious diseases. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when it has a cold. If you will inquire into the merits of the various remedies that are recommended for coughs and colds, you will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy stands high in the estimation of people who use it. It is prompt and effective, pleasant and safe to take, which are qualities especially to be desired when a medicine is intended for children. For sale by all dealers.

Law Violators Must Travel Straight Path New Police Chief Proposes a Clean Town

Every new chief of police in practically every city in the country usually begins his administration by proclaiming broadcast that he intends to "clean up"—to put an end to all petty violations of the ordinances and stop minor disturbances. The rule is almost inflexible. Not quite, however, for there is one exception—Chief of Police Howard Stark.

Several weeks ago Commissioner of Public Safety D. G. Johnson decided upon the then captain of police to succeed Stanley D. Burno as head of the department. Contrary to all expectations, at least of police reporters, Stark assumed the responsibility of the office by plunging into the various routine matters that gather in the office of chief faster than flies in summer. Never once did he think of issuing a statement of what he intended to do; not once did he hint about that little matter of publicity.

Having served as acting chief on numerous occasions Stark was thoroughly conversant with the duties of the office when he received his promotion. He settled down to work immediately, cleared up all the little matters, got his force into first class condition, then started working along his own ideas.

Chief Stark didn't get away entirely from tradition. He planned a big clean up, but he didn't say anything about it. He quietly issued his orders to his men and started getting results. This was about two weeks ago. In the meantime he has just about cleaned up the lodging houses and pool halls and is still working on cases of petty violations of the liquor ordinance and gambling.

"You've been making an awful lot of raids on lodging houses and joints here recently. What's going on?" was asked him yesterday during the course of a little conversation.

"Just cleaning up a bit" was the reply. But the "cleaning up" was the key to the whole situation.

"Why didn't you say something about it?"

"Well, we thought we would wait until everything was in shape and then shape and then see if anyone could tell the difference."

During the conversation it developed that the clean up now in progress is greater than it seems on the surface.
Every violator of every ordinance,
however petty, is being sought and dealt with.

"When we're through you won't be able to find one single violator of any ordinance in the city of Colorado Springs, no matter how insignificant
the offense," the chief said. "That is,
you won't find one who makes it a business of violating ordinances. Of course, we can't stop the fellow who is here one day and gone the next. We can only watch for him and get him
as soon as possible."

During the last few days detectives
have been cleaning up lodging houses.
One house, the Ormonde, has been raided twice within a few days. Proprietors and lodgers have been given a long list of instructions to be followed and, by means of the police magistrate, they are being made to see that they must be followed. One of the most important orders issued is that proprietors of all lodging houses must compel every guest to register and to keep registers, which are to be open to police inspection, at all times. Lodging houses in the outer parts of the city as well as in the downtown district are being investigated.

"These places will be operated straight hereafter if we have to keep a man there all the time," said Stark.
Most of the proprietors of lodging houses have pledged themselves to keep the police informed as to their operations. "That's the only way to keep yourself in the clear," they have been told. And many already are using this method.

A dozen or more petty gambling games have been reported to Chief Stark and he is cleaning them out as fast as possible. Ordinances relating to the operation of pool halls are being enforced in much the same manner.
Some time ago the chief issued orders
to pool hall proprietors to keep minors from their places of business and this order is being rigidly enforced. The same applies to drinking.

Chief Stark's clean up is not new.
But it apparently is thorough and he has shown that he intends to keep right on cleaning up by doing the work
rather than seeking the publicity.

Persons to Lecture on 'College Business' Courses on Tuesday

The next lecture in the Colorado college series will be given by Professor Warren M. Persons on "College Courses Preparatory to Business," in Perkins hall Tuesday night at 8.15 o'clock. A new department of business administration and banking with a special income of $6,000 a year will be opened at the college this fall with Professor Persons as its dean.

The lecture to be given Tuesday will contain a summary of the history of college courses planned for the student intending to enter business, the reason why technical training for business is becoming a necessity, why colleges and universities rather than practical experience must be looked to for this technical training, a statement of the principles that have ruled in planning
the department of business administration and banking at Colorado college and a description of the courses to be offered.

Professor R. J. James of the University of Illinois, has said that "The victory of the well planned, carefully elaborated, well taught curriculum of the special school over the haphazard pickup-as-you-can training of so-called practical life is as sure in business and commerce as in engineering, law and medicine, and that victory is sure and speedy in proportion as the demand for efficiency becomes more imperative."

Professor Persons will discuss the problems of devising such a curriculum and of the ideals that should rule in teaching it. Opportunity will be offered for question and discussion.

ARTISTS DON'T KNOW FACTS, SAYS MAYOR; WILL SEND LETTER TO EVERY TAXPAYER

Special Communication Prepared to Show
Just how City Money Is Spent

Believing much of the criticism of administration relative to high taxes is unjust and is made by people who are not fully acquainted with all facts, Mayor McKesson has prepared a lengthy letter completely covering all phases of the situation, which will be mailed to all taxpayers within the next few days. The letter is explained and should prove a means of clearing many in Colorado Springs to the question of taxes in an entirely different light.

Most of the criticism which he has heard, the mayor says has come from persons who are not acquainted with the city government. He has explained the reasons for the high taxation this year and pointed out exactly what the money is being used for, the mayor says, almost to a penny, have readily agreed to the mayor's viewpoint. He says speaking of the matter yesterday he said:

Want our employers to know how we are conducting their affairs. It is for this reason I have prepared this statement on taxes. Before they make their criticisms I want the people to fully understand the situation. When they know it thoroughly, then they will be fitted to express their opinions of it. We want to offset unjust criticism and invite the just.

A resume of the mayor's letter follows:

What Taxpayers Should Know.

That 3 1/2 mills of the 1/2 mill tax levy goes to pay interest and principal on the city's bonded debt.

That the city is paying off its bonded debt. If it were not for this fact taxes would be materially reduced. Since the adoption of the charter the city has raised $258,497.30 for the payment of bonds, which is $258,497.30 more than was raised for similar purposes during the previous 38 years.

That city taxes were increased this year $30,810.35, which amounts to 84-10 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, for the purpose of paying the following:

Deficit in cash receipts of former years	$13,810.87
Expenses caused by floods	10,000.00
Emergencies (fire alarm and sewer appropriations)	2,963.50
Necessary sewer extensions	4,000.00
Total	30,810.35

That in addition to the above expenditures which had to be paid out of this year's tax levy the following new important improvements were provided for without an increase in the tax levy:

Public comfort stations	$ 8,000.00
Conduit over Shoshone run	4,000.00
South Nevada undercrossing	1,185.00
To complete fire alarm system	4,500.00
Total	$17,685.00

Decrease Next Year.

Thus it will be seen that by increasing the taxes $30,810.35 this year, the city will be able to pay back debts and provide for necessary new improvements totaling $48,495.35. These expenses will not have to be provided for next year, and taxes can be proportionately decreased.

The present administration prevented an increase in taxes this year of 3 1/2 mills, by devising a plan whereby $130,000 of bonds were refunded at par. If these bonds had not been refunded the tax levy this year would have been 11 mills instead of 7 1/2 mills. If the administration is equally successful in refunding more bonds this year, taxes for next year can be reduced 1 mill or a mill and a half.

The city has nothing whatever to do with assessing property and is not responsible for any changes in valuations of property whereby taxes are increased or decreased. Any increase in your taxes of more than 84 cents on the $1000 of assessed valuations results from an increase in taxes for other than city purposes or from an increase in the valuation of your property of more than three times the valuation of last year.

The cost to the taxpayer of running the city is decreasing while that of most other cities in the country is increasing. A comparison between Galveston, Tex. and Colorado Springs, cities of about the same population shows that it costs Galveston about double what it costs this city for operation and maintenance.

The city is rendering a larger public service than before the adoption of the charter without any increase in taxation for operating expenses.

The city keeps a full and complete record of all money received and the purpose for which every cent is paid out. These records are examined twice a year by an expert public accountant and are open to the examination of anyone who wishes to inspect them. No money can be paid out without authority from the head of each department and the commissioner, and no cent in excess of $50 can be paid without it is authorized by a vote of the council.

The city will gladly give information to anyone seeking it and it posts tax payers to learn the facts about its matters before criticizing the administration.

13-POUND BABY REACHES EATON

EATON, April 4.—Old Doc Stork is just able to flap his wings as last night he carried a heavy burden to the home of H. G. Lair here in the shape of a boy who tipped the beam at exactly 13 pounds. Doctors say that babies of that weight are rare and that 14-pound infants are extraordinary. In one or two instances children have weighed 15 pounds at birth.

TON'S REPEAL BILL TO BE REPORTED IN WEEK

Opponents of Measure Will Make no Effort to Delay It in Committee

WASHINGTON, April 4.—There was every prospect today that the Panama free tolls repeal bill would be reported in some form from the senate committee on inter-oceanic canals within a week.

Several senators who oppose the repeal asserted that they would oppose delay in committee, agreeing that nothing could be gained by delay. In view of this attitude, the feeling is growing that the house bill flatly repealing toll exemption for American ships will be reported from the committee without recommendation.

Some of the many proposed compromise measures may also be reported in the same manner, leaving it to the senate to determine the whole controversy.

MORE THAN HALF MILLION BEING SPENT IN BUILDINGS

Percy Hagerman will start work in a few days on a new $25,000 residence on the Mesa road. Improvements at the Union Printers home will cost $30,000 this season, and the service building at Colorado college and the new chapel for St. Paul's M. E. church will cost $5,000 each.

Cassitt hall at the college is not yet completed, but will be dedicated in June. A number of workmen are still employed on interior finishing.

Many new bungalows are also being started. Dr. Paul M. Lehnus is building a bungalow at Broadmoor park at a cost of $2,500. It is a five-room house. St. Paul's M. E. church took out a $5,000 permit in February and is building on South Nevada avenue. Grant and Patterson have just constructed a $1,200 four-room house at 947 Spruce street. F. M. Cox is building a frame house at 207 East St. Vrain street costing $3,500. Clara P. Alter is building a $2,000 house at 1019 East Boulder street.

In January the total of building permits granted was $34,875. The February total was $111,400, which included the new Stratton building. The March total was $14,177.

COLORADO CITY BOYS AND GIRLS WIN 'SPELLING BEE'

were girls. Each team had five members who spelled every word correctly with the exception of the boys' club, which had but four. Those who had a perfect score were Myron Grant, Carmen Freyachlag, Mackay Solenberger, Jewell Newburn and Annabel Adriance of the Colorado Springs High school team; George Stetson, Fred Brauer, Sadie Hinch, Pearl Bibbs and Bernice Saulmon of the Cheyenne school team; John Griffin, Emil Brandenburg, Nellie Griffin, Elsie Johnson and Frances Musser of the Colorado City High school and Roy Goodnight, Clara Mullen, Irene Brewington and Pearl Laverling of the Boys' Club association team.

Forty boys and girls in the audience entered the judging contest for the $5 and $2.50 prizes which were offered the boy or girl who was able to keep a record closest to that of the judges of the spelling contest. Those who entered this contest were not allowed to use spelling books and were supposed to make a chart record of the words spelled right by each. The cards will be gone over carefully by a special committee to be appointed and the winners will be announced later.

W. A. Miller, superintendent of the Boys' Club, said that the spelling bee last night was a complete success, with an audience in attendance that far outstripped that at last year's affair in enthusiasm. Interest in the annual matches is growing, he declared, and the spelling bee has come to be a permanent event.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Will Be Asked About C. F. & I. Strike Affairs

WASHINGTON, April 4.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will appear next Monday before the subcommittee of the house mines committee, investigating conditions in the coal strike field of Colorado. Since its investigation in the Colorado field, the subcommittee has held several meetings to make plans for discovering the identity of the controlling factors in the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, the largest employer in the strike field. Mr. Rockefeller will be questioned as to his connection with the company.

Japanese Politicians Decline Cabinet Posts

TOKIO, April 4.—Difficulty in constructing a new Japanese cabinet has been encountered by Viscount Kato Kiyomasa who undertook the task at the request of the emperor. Many of the statesmen who had been selected for portfolios declined to take the risk of running their political future as there has been much popular disapproval of the selection of Viscount Kiyomasa.

The political groups in the house of representatives, including the Constitutional party which is the strongest body in the chamber as well as the entire press, are opposing the new premier on the ground that his selection signifies a revival of the old bureaucracy. They declare that the existence of the political parties has been ignored.

Banquet and Reception at Y. M. C. A. —Ward Declares Postal Men Are Best in Land

Postoffice employees last night tendered their official welcome to Postmaster O. W. Ward at a reception and banquet given in his honor at the Y. M. C. A. building. All employees of the office were present and addresses were given by Mr. Ward, Assistant Postmaster Edmund Allen, John I. Young and Sherman Spencer, president of the carriers union. Music was furnished by the postoffice quartet.

As to his impressions of his first 30 days of service, said Postmaster Ward, I want to say that I have learned more than shall note and thou must note than I ever learned in all the catechisms of my life. I have also learned that a great many people, whether they live on Mount Baldy, the sunny side of Cheyenne mountain, or in the beautiful mushroom park at Austria bluff believe that they should receive their mail just a little while before their neighbor. "Another thing that has impressed me is the way in which the government does business. While I have always heard that government wheels turn slowly, I never appreciated the safety of this road so much as I do today. A lesson which so many of us must learn is make haste slowly not only in our business life, but also in our social, political and religious life.

Another thing that has impressed me is the class of men employed by the government. As I have said on several occasions, and I say it with sincerity, the Colorado Springs postoffice has the best most intelligent and finest lot of men I have ever had the pleasure of meeting. I believe too that they are the most conscientious, loyal and more devoted in serving the public than any other body of men I have known.

Moose Dictator to Speak Here Tonight

The Colorado Springs lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose will give an entertainment this evening at 8 o'clock at the Odium theater in honor of the supreme past dictator of the lodge, Arthur H. Jones. Jones has been meeting with the general committee on the matter of the national sanatorium of the lodge. He will explain the proposition in detail tonight. Both Colorado Springs and Denver are making an effort to land the institution.

M. W. Purcell will preside at tonight's meeting and May E. McKeown will make an address. There will be music and several talks.

DRAWINGS FOR NEW BANDSTAND AND PROVIDE ATTRACTIVE BUILDING FOR NORTH PARK

Side elevation (top) and front elevation of the proposed combination bandstand and public comfort station to be erected in North park within the next few months. The building will be constructed of concrete and stucco and will be one of the most attractive public buildings in Colorado Springs. Plans by Thomas P. Barber, architect.

Simply in design but having that appearance of attractiveness which goes with simplicity, the new bandstand and public comfort station which will be erected in North park within the next few months will far exceed expectations of both the park commission and the officials. Plans for the combination building have been submitted to Mayor McKesson by the park commission and undoubtedly will be approved by the city planning commission at its meeting next Wednesday night.

The entire front of the building will be constructed of concrete, while the rear, or building proper, will be either of concrete or a decorative brick. The building will be trimmed in stucco, the entire front of the building will be open, not unlike the bandstand part of the rustic building used by the Midland band at Stratton park. The building will be divided into three sections—rest rooms for men and women and a room for members of the band. The cost of the building shown in the above plans is well within the appropriation. While no section of North park has been designated as a site for the bandstand and comfort station, sentiment seems to favor the extreme east side of the park. This location, it is pointed out, would be the most convenient and at the same time attractive. The large majority of the people who attend the concerts go to the park by way of Tejon street, while scores of automobiles usually stand on Tejon and Kiowa streets during the concerts. If the stand were placed on the east side of the park, it would make it more convenient for people to find seats and possible for those who remain in motors to hear. The stand also would make a pleasing appearance to tourists passing on Tejon street cars.

The idea that property owners object to having the rear of the building facing the street opposite them is scorned by members of the park commission. It is pointed out that the building will be one of the most attractive in the city and that the rear will be half hidden by shrubbery. In addition, the wide center parking on North Nevada avenue will hide the stand from residents on the opposite side of the street. In selecting the site the park commission is considering almost altogether the appearance the stand will make to tourists and residents who attend the North park concerts.

One of the principal features of the bandstand part of the building will be the sounding board. The park commission has been especially careful in having its plans drawn that this feature would be considered as fully as possible. With the board, it is said, the music will not only be heard at a greater distance but will be far more effective a short distance away.

Provided the plans are approved by the planning commission, work will be started within the near future and the building probably will be completed before the middle of June.

The Chicago Grand Opera company representing the world's greatest stars will be in Denver April 7th and 8th, at which time concerts will be given in the municipal Auditorium there. The Auditorium hotel being only a block away will be very convenient and a delightful place to call "home" while attending.

COPYRIGHT 1914 CLARA E. SIMCOX

N.Y.

Many are the variations which appear from day to day in the world of fashion that, for the greater number of women, it is almost impossible to keep pace with the subtle differences that can be individually adopted with good results. It is the novelties and trifles that can be applied to the as-

ured fashions in a way that offers added variety and interest. And has there ever been a time when we have had such a mixup of periods and national modes as at the present moment? We have Watteau hats, Pompadour cretons, Egyptian scarves, Roman striped silks, Japanese bows, not to mention a revival of the futurist linings and Post-Impressionist effects. That the exact significance of all this melange will be beyond a general hazier license for eccentric novelty would be hard to define. Still, it adds to the interest of our clothes and encourages a taste for originality.

At the same time the so-called "artistic" woman always a dangerous personality as far as dressing is concerned should beware of well-worn pre-historic designs in silks and cretons as substitutes for the rare colors and effects in which the favored few can indulge without giving offense.

One of the commonest mistakes in dressing is to copy in cheap materials the eccentric mode that can only stily its existence when everything connected with it is beyond criticism.

Fashionable Spring Fabrics.
The alert brains of the manufacturer world have devised all manner of acceptable fabrics for Spring wear. The most fashionable materials for the present for afternoon gowns and tailored suits and trimmings are silk tulle, chiffon, tulle in Persian effects, mauve stripe moires, crepe poplins, sh poplins in clan tartans, ripple spots in silk and wool, gabardine and fine.

With the tulle styles foremost the shimmering fabric must necessarily be which drapes gracefully, clings to the figure, if necessary, and the same time be fairly durable, for the thes dantesque that are all the rage the afternoon gown must not be fragile. As silk crepe fulfills so perfectly these requirements it will doubtless enjoy tremendous popularity. Several new weaves have appeared which are of interest. Pebble we, which I have used for several of my new models, is delightfully supple and pliable, with an added lustre which makes it quite irresistible. It is easily manipulated and falls naturally into graceful folds. Chiffon tulle makes up into extremely smart looking gowns and, either plain, check or striped, is fashionable at the time of writing. Undoubtedly will continue to be, most supple, softest weave, of the French couturieres say that they find even that somewhat stiff for the prevailing modes, but personally I have found that it can be easily draped to form the ruffles, frills and panniers that are features of the Spring styles.

A unique position is held by goldfin. It is an excellent understudy for corduroy, and like corduroy will outwear the majority of materials, for in the best qualities the fabric is pure and not chemically treated to give it a finish. Perhaps it owes a great deal of its success to the particularly good colors in which it has been developed.

An exquisite shade of chamels, the new Argentine yellow and flamingo, are all deftly brought out in this material. For sport coats and golf capes goldfin supercedes all others. Stripe materials are very popular again, but they are contraindicated by the plaids and checks, which are extremely smart this Spring. The favored color combinations are shown—blue and green, blue and white, brown and blue, and it goes without saying that black and white is in evidence.

My French correspondent writes me that, although black hats were conspicuous at the Ant-euil races, the gowns were in the brightest colors and the most vivid plaids were used as trimmings on the tailored suits.

One costume that created quite a sensation was worn by Mlle. Yvonne Brelot, the young comedienne. The suit was of goldfin in bright Russian green; the skirt was made with box pleats and was quite short; her underskirt, which came a few inches below her dress, was of green and blue tartan plaid silk; the little collarless bolero, with the same plaid on the revers, opened over a white cloth waistcoat which fastened in a triz manner down the front with a row of oxidized silver buttons, the genuine Scotch buttons bearing a thistle. Her hat was a Scotch beret, with an ochre colored up-standing quill. Over this costume was thrown a long green Neapolitan cape lined with white satin. The cape was cut with the fashionable point at the back and fell in ample folds, which enabled the wearer to throw the end over her shoulder in true cavalier fashion. The cape, like most of these new Neapolitan wraps, had a large hood lined with silk. This kind of cape recalls the gold cape of ten years ago; it is extremely full and is cut circular. Some of the models come down as far as the hem of the dress.

Many white waistcoats and black and white vests are worn with the French frocks. An instance of this is shown in the model illustrated (Fig. 1). The costume, showing a smart combination of two materials, is in black moire tulle and a deep Thespian blue satin cloth. The little coat which is much seen in Paris is semi-fitting and fastens in a novel manner with straps over the vest, which is of thick white silk, striped with black, with a row of blue and black enamel buttons. The fish-wife drapery forming the upper part of the skirt is of the moire tulle. The cloth of which the underskirt is made and which is employed for the facings of the coat is in that exquisite rich shade of blue that has recently cropped up with such avidity. This blue has a purplish tinge in it in some of its tones, while in others it is un-compromisingly blue in varying depths. It looks its best in the finest face cloths and poplin cloths. And it has this advantage for those wise women who do not try to save on material that it cannot be successfully reproduced in cheap fabrics.

The plain blue is only for those who buy good material. With such a costume as the one under discussion, a little white crushed straw toque, with two full black pompons standing sheer out at the sides as in the sketch, is extremely smart.

French Frocks I Have Imported.
I have now on exhibition some new frocks from the French capital which show the general trend of style abroad as completely as it can be shown when all the notable Paris couturieres seem to be bent on more individual developments than were characteristic in former years. There is, however, a decided leaning toward a balloon effect below the hips, again arrested at the knees, as exemplified in Fig. 2, where two rather wide bouffant ruffles again contract the fullness of the gathered skirt. A rather butterfly effect is to be observed on the front drapery of the gown body, while the loose long sleeves have turned back cuffs of a most piquant shape.

Dark blue, called by the pretty name of blue de nuit, is a favorite among the colors of Spring costumes. One attractive model in this deep color is developed in chiffon and tulle, combined with a rare cream lace arranged in alternate irregular circles around the figure. A note of oddity is added by a unique gilt necklace, which encircles the throat in a single strand and falls: defined with a silk in soft Persian dew with pendant tassels over the bust. A sign and the same silk composed the tightly grouped bunch of dull red moss rosebuds is tucked in at the belt.

Another dark blue street costume of light weight serge has a charming ruffles about eight inches in depth running in diagonal lines from the waistline. It is brightened by a red-gold chiffon bodice, hand embroidered with green and orange floss silk. A bunch of varicolored cherries decorates the girdle.

The gown on Fig. 3 is a creation of my own, and I have used a dusky, gray tussor, almost the color of smoke, for my medium. Its somber tone is livened with a modified Gabrielle d'Es trees collar, who, history tells us, was the "heart queen" of Henry the Fourth. The color of this quaint feature of the jacket is a peasant's pink, striped with green. The material employed is a bengaline of unresisting quality unlike the lady from which the collar is named. The box pleated front shuts toward the back in graceful, undulating folds. Fringed ends, buttons and braid ornaments feature on the front of the jacket, and an oddly-shaped buckle of gray wood adds much to its elegance.

Two of the most delicately lovely models I have on view are a radiant blue and gold shot silk and a pale beige moire of the softest quality imaginable. The first mentioned has a centre draped high in the back over a bodice of transparent blue chiffon, beneath which glimmers a faint suggestion of a gold corset cover. The neck opens boldly over a filling of malines and a strangely shaped loose collar—much like a rough rider's kerchief—shows on the back of the neck. A little apron adds to the coquetry of the costume.

The beige moire has loose tucked sleeves of the self-toned chiffon which hang limply below the elbow. The suave drapery of the skirt swirls below a short double tulle, and a poplin of chiffon, embroidered with Copenhagen blue in a non-committal geometrical design, serves its decorative purpose. This appears in similar figuring on the waist, which is further embellished with a high girdle finishing in two inclusive points curved upwards to the breast. A narrow blue velvet ribbon outlines the opening of the neck, which is filled in with Herre lace. This same lace also shows illusively under the bloused bodice in the back. Charming, indeed, is a dashing little hat which I judged suitable to blend with this costume. It had a brim of the Copenhagen blue in hemp straw, narrow in the front, but spreading broadly toward the back. It was unneed to feel that they are an offense against artistic ethics.

New Features in Bags.
Among the new bags I find many decided innovations. Their shapes are manifold, but most of them are long and narrow rather than short and broad, as formerly. They are, besides, all more or less ornate in style, even the tailored models in leather being gathered or pleated into mountings of gun-metal, steel or silver. Some of the newer designs, carried out in leather, open to show a half-moon mirror cunningly inserted in the top, which, with the fittings that many of them now boast, does away with the necessity for a vanity bag. One of the most delightful appearing opera-bags I have seen is a melon-shaped affair of cloth of silver, heavily fringed on the edges. It is mounted in platinum, and a platinum watch is inset near the base. The lining is of Pompadour silk in plum colored tones, soft and delicate to the eye, while the interior when opened gives forth a delicious and refreshing odor of old lavender, a scent which, by the way, is again assuming a dominant role among the more pungent perfumes.

Still another sun-umbrella was a study in reds as glowing as the picture, "The Study in Reds," that the artist William Chase designed. Who will ever forget that famous picture of his in which the various shades of the same tone-color seem to melt into each other, blended and yet distinct? The head of the way, is again assuming a dominant role among the more pungent perfumes.

and which brings back to us the days "when grandamma was young!"

Ribbons.
With the increased popularity of sashes, used sometimes on an ultra-quiet gown to give it the one brilliant note of fantastic color, the vivid tones of ribbons have struck a still more vigorous chord than those used on the robes of 1872, from which many of them are copied. Not a few of the ribbon sashes are shot with gilt or silver, and on a white gown blossom in conventional designs—stiff rows of pansies and roses in shades not conceivable to the natural process of floral evolution, but only to the genius of a master-wizard such as Luther Burbank. When our eyes tire of bizarre effects, however, we find a haunting charm and loveliness about some of the softer blurred designs, such as a faint rose in irregular motifs against a background of ashgray. So much, however, of a color combination's effectiveness depends upon the personality of the wearer, for there are moonlight as well as sunlight types of women—even though, until their sensibilities are trained, they may fail to recognize this fact, well known as it is to artists!

Phases of the Coaching Parasol.
Coaching, as we all know, is one of the chief delights of early spring, and the coaching parasol, or sun-umbrella, as it is sometimes designated, is in a class quite by itself. It is built on lines much sturdier than the ordinary affair and has a far heavier frame to resist the high winds which strike us with so much greater force when we are perched on the top of a coach. This coaching parapluie generally boasts a stout handle of wood, carved, in most cases, with a sporting head of some characteristic description, such as a horse or a Dalmatian coach dog; while the silk employed should be of the heaviest quality obtainable to be of any lasting value. One that struck me as being the acme of suitability was made with a handle of warmly-toned Bermuda cedar, a wood which has a delicious fragrance as well as beautiful natural markings. The handle was carved in the semblance of a devil-fish, and the silk used ran the gamut of the yellows, from a burnt amber to a vivid gold as sunny in effect as a summer day.

Still another sun-umbrella was a study in reds as glowing as the picture, "The Study in Reds," that the artist William Chase designed. Who will ever forget that famous picture of his in which the various shades of the same tone-color seem to melt into each other, blended and yet distinct? The head of the way, is again assuming a dominant role among the more pungent perfumes.

Casper, Wyoming

It was only about two years ago that the city pulled the wool from over its eyes and awoke to the light of vast new development in its great oil fields.

Several years ago Casper was a small shipping point for live stock on the Northwestern Railroad. Today this modern city of 5,000 is the busiest, liveliest community in the West. It is not only a wool center of national importance and an oil city whose fields are boosting Wyoming into the front rank of oil-producing states, but is also a division point on the Burlington Route's new transcontinental line from Puget Sound to the Gulf of Mexico; a division point of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad. It is a com-division point and headquarters of the Wyoming and Northwestern Railway. The great

Hill line, which will mean so much in the development of Wyoming and the prosperity of Casper, the central city, will be completed next fall. Officials say trains will be running through Casper early in October.

The dozen or more well-

financed and aggressive

companies that are operating in the oil regions freight supplies of all kinds from the city and have their main offices at Casper. At least $5,000,000 has gone into the buying

$5,000,000 Spent in Oil Work in the oil development about Casper. About $2,500,000 of this is represented in the oil refineries.

When everything is carefully weighed it must be said that Casper's greater and later prosperity, though sudden and spectacular, is solid and substantial. Real money has flowed through the commercial channels of the city in real development work in the oil fields, directed by men who were after oil and were not "wild-cattling" or "stock-jobbing."

To Prospective Automobile Purchasers:

Never before in the history of the automobile business has any factory, building a large quantity of cars, ever enjoyed such a trade as has the BUICK for the 1914 season. A recent letter from them states that the production of 32,000 pleasure cars and 8,000 trucks will be the output for 1914.

40,000 vehicles built and shipped between September and May 5th. This speaks volumes for Buick construction, and every owner is a salesman.

Our allotment, which has been increased three times, has all been ordered out and only a few "37s" and "25s", two "55s" and two "36s" are for sale. Yours very truly,

TEARING DOWN BUILDING SALE

Begins Monday Morning 9 a.m.

(Our store will be closed for the noon hour, 12:30 to 1:30.)
In a very short time only a matter of days we must vacate our entire present store! Both Buildings will be razed to the ground and a new Structure will rise forth from amid the ruins of the old, that will fittingly show our supreme faith in Colorado Springs and do justice to the wants of our customers. This new store will house the old store's spirit of good will and integrity but all else will be new. Applying the most modern contrivances for helping us to extend better service, better and more comprehensive lines of merchandise and the many conveniences we've longed to offer the public but never been able to give. "Watch for the greater Hibbard Store!"

Now for the present Upon vacating these old quarters, we will move into the Bennett Building (the first floor and basement), just across the alley north of us, which we will occupy during the tearing down and rebuilding of our store. Our Space will be temporarily reduced to One-Fourth of what we now have! That is the reason for this tremendous sale, beginning Monday, in our present store

C.A.
Hibbard & Company

OPEN AT 9 A. M.!

Our store will open at 9 a. m. and close at 6 p. m. We will close from 12:30 until 1:30 for the noon hour. This leaves ALL of our salespeople here. ALL of the time the store is open. Better service for everyone! *

—In our planning, we expected until very recently to be able to build around a part of the old store while we were occupying it. We have bought these great stocks with that in mind thinking of having plenty of room. At the last minute we were informed by our builders that it would be impractical and expensive, besides the damage liable to occur to our stock and must entirely vacate. The Bennett building is our only available space, even though much smaller than we would like. That is why we have these great stocks and why so much must be sold at once

—The Prices on Hundreds of Lines have been reduced to accomplish this wonderful Clearance! The values and original prices of such have ceased to be any object! Only a few, comparatively, of the items are given below, but our counters, tables and shelves will be filled with them. "Look for the Yellow Signs" every one you see means a pile of bargains. More will be added from Day to Day, as we can get them ready. Prices will be reduced to the point where the goods will sell. Not everything will be included but the great bulk of our stock will be

CHICAGO MARKET

NEW YORK MARKET
 April 4.—Wheat, influence of the Argentine supply of wheat are remarkably small, and that Europe may be forced to come to the United States for large amounts, the majority of speculators took notice mainly for the continued extremely favorable crop reports. Advances from over the entire winter belt were unusually unusual, the acreage so large and progress of the plant so near faultless that the trade was constantly reminded of the estimate of a possible harvest of 800,000,000 bushels. Some little export business at New York for Portugal helped to rally wheat prices moderately after an early decline. Promise of lighter world shipments and of a falling off in the domestic wheat supply tended also to give more or less comfort to the bulls. Corn, after having weakened with wheat, and because of the slowness of shipping demand, made some recovery on account of an advance in ocean freight rates from Argentina to New Orleans. Argentine corn to Chicago at 50 cents compared with yesterday's 49 1/2 cents. Prospects that seedling will be general in Illinois next week had a bearing on the market.

ROBERT WILLIAMS

Robert Hilliard was seven years old when he made his bow before a small but select audience in the drawing room of the late Philip Hubert, a prominent
New York architect, who died not long ago in southern California. His leading lady was the host's only daughter,
Marie, who grew up to become Mrs.
Gustav Frohman, and Mr. Hubert wrote
the playlet which they acted.

Marie and Robert were, of course,
enthusiastically applauded by admiring friends and relatives, who predicted great careers for them. But they reluctantly yielded to parental counsel and decided to go back to school instead of becoming great stars at once.
The acting microbe had found lodging in Master Hilliard's system.
However, and lay quiescent but alert.
After he had graduated from New York college and Bishop's college at Lenox-ville, Canada, force of circumstances fairly crowded him into business activities. He became a broker in Wall street, where the headaches and heart-aches come from, and put his profits
into the erection of the Criterion theater, Brooklyn.

Mr. Hilliard appeared on his own stage in "False Shame," having previously acted in the Brooklyn amateur clubs. His New York debut as a pro-

Golda. Spike annoys Cora, who is killed by Porkey.

Both the Dugan and the Golden gangs are planning to hold balls. Both gangs try to sell tickets to the same storekeeper. The Golden gang, which comes first, sells several tickets.

All this time the malign influence of the gangsters is working on the country boy, who finally joins the gang
after he has been taken home intoxicated. His sister, Cora, is ill, and is tended by Jess Dugan.

When the second gang comes to sell
tickets to the merchant, the police rush in and all are arrested, including the country youth, who gets 30 days.

The Spike Golden gang holds its dance. Poorly dressed, ill-fed couples jostle each other in a little smoke-filled room in the throes of what takes the place of the turkey trot and tango on the east side. Biff and his gang hear of the dance and decide to go revenge by breaking it up. Arming themselves with revolvers, they descend
upon the dance. A gang fight follows.
The gunmen, hiding behind buildings and telephone poles, shoot at each other. Golden's gang is defeated.
Golden swears revenge. When the gang meets again, the fight continues and Golden is killed. Biff happens along and is arrested by the police. A revolver purposely placed to "frame him up" by members of the Golden gang acts as testimony, and Biff is sent to the electric chair.

Porkey, when released after a short term, swears revenge for his brother's life. He finds that while he was in jail his sister, Jess, died from the sweatshop conditions under which she worked, and that Cora Drew, disgusted with city conditions, has returned to the country.

Porkey returns to his gang and they round up one of the rival gangsters whom they believe is responsible for the perjured testimony against Biff.
The other gangsters hold the suspected man in a little room and send for Porkey to come and kill him. The suspense is very tense as Porkey is summoned. The messenger delivers to him a big knife to use as a weapon.
Porkey starts after the perjurer, but the influence of Cora and the reformer affects him. When he comes face to face with the enemy he dismisses the other gangsters, saying that the two will fight it out face to face in a locked room. There he purposely permits the other to escape after the gang has left the pair alone for what they supposed would be a fight to the death.

A year afterward Porkey is a changed man. He and Cora are living in the country, driving the cows home at the close of day. The gangster has forever deserted his old companions
and environment for a wholesome life.

ST. PAUL SYMPHONY

WALTER H. ROTHWELL
Conductor of the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra, Which Will Appear at the Burns, Monday, April 13.

Professional was with Georgia Cayvan, in
"A Daughter of Ireland," at the old Standard theater. The play was a failure, but he persevered and soon was leading man for Mrs. Lantry, a famous English stage beauty, who created a furor during her first American tour. Then he became very popular all over the country in "Mr.
Barnes of New York," "Paul Kaurer,"
"Lost—24 Hours," "Wheels Within Wheels," "Phila of Society," "Blue Jeans" and "Sporting Life," which ran for months in New York at the Academy of Music.

The stock broking temptation lured
Hilliard away from the stage for a time, but he came back and starred in "The Nominee," "Jim Bludso," "That Man and I" and "The Mummy." Among the members of his company in the latter play were Amelia Bingham and Raymond Hitchcock. During the prolonged New York run of "Belasco's,"
"The Girl of the Golden West," he played the pictureque express robber. He produced "A Fool There Was," in which he starred from coast to coast for four years, until he found another popular success in "The Argyle Case," which ran in New York all last season and which will be seen here soon.

EM-PRESS

Beginning this week, the Empress will endeavor to give its patrons one big feature play each week without advance in price. Hence, next Wednesday the first of these productions will be shown. The story of "The Gangsters" follows:

The older brother, Biff, is the leader of the Dugan gang, of which the younger brother, Porkey, is a member.
The sister, Jess, a byproduct of sweatshop slavery, although emaciated in body, has sufficient strength of character to disapprove of her brother's means of earning a living.

Fresh from the country, Billy and Cora Drew come to the city. They have letters of introduction to Henry Davis, a practical reformer, who conducts a home. While they are talking to Davis the members of the Dugan gang decide to amuse themselves by "rough-housing" the mission. They enter on mischief bent. The police, scenting trouble, rush to aid Davis,
who dismissed them without a complaint against the roustabouts.

The Drews settle down across the hall from the Dugans. Cora meets Porkey and is attracted to him, but refuses to have anything to do with him because she realizes he is a gangster.

The Dugan gang has for its rival
the Golden gang, headed by Spike

WITH BASEBALL IMMORTALS

Anecdotes and Stories of Heroes of the Diamond
Who Will Live Forever In the History of America's National Game

BY BILLY MURPHY.

Tim Hurst, the veteran umpire, is a good one on Bill Dahlen, one of the most famous ball players in the game, who formerly played the Brooklyn Superbas. He tells concerns Dahlen's period of service with the Chicago Cubs under "Pop" Anson.

"Anson called Dahlen good and all in a game I was umpiring in 1882," said Hurst.

"Dahlen took it all without saying a word, but a few minutes later Dahlen remarked to me: 'Now watch me bark that old cow's shins.'"

"Anson was not as agile then as was in his younger days and he played with much effort. All through the game Bill made great plays only to throw the ball a few feet in front of the bag, and it was a person as McCarthy existed, and he left the park unnoticed.

Naturally you all are wondering how Jack called Yeager safe when he was out three times.

When Bradley made his high throw, McCarthy figured that there was no chance to get Yeager at first.

But instead of standing on the base and jumping for the throw, Stovall ran back about fifteen feet and made the catch. Yeager had cut first base on his way to second, not figuring on Stovall's remarkable play.

Willie Keeler, who was coaching

Anson to stop it with his power, that was not the end. A few days later the White Sox had to make a trip to St. Louis, and Anson told Dahlen he was not to be taken on the trip. He had been told that several men in the party and he only collected fifteen tickets. Anson here were only fifteen men and named the berths they occupied.

"The man in berth No. 7 says he is a member of the Chicago team," said the conductor, who was referring to Dahlen.

"He's striking you," replied Anson.

Poor Bill was asked to cough up and he couldn't.

The train was stopped and Dahlen was put off about thirty miles from Chicago. How he got back to Chicago only Bill himself knows, but he would not talk to anybody for a week.

Charley Comiskey, the "Noblest Roman of Them All," only the other day described a ball game that has about as many funny features as any we have ever heard of.

"The game," said Mr. Comiskey, "was played in St. Louis in 1882, between the Browns and the Athletics.

"In checking the baggage to Philadelphia, the wrong trunk was sent to St. Louis and the Athletics turned up with somebody's belongings, while the stranger, whoever he was, had their uniforms, and when the time came for the club to go out to Sportsman's Park, their uniforms had not arrived.

"The Athletics were a well-dressed bunch of players. Some of them were regular Beau Brummels and it did not appear to them to play ball in their street clothes, particularly as a light shower was falling and the grass was wet.

"But the Browns had no extra uniforms in those days and the Athletics must play as they were dressed or not at all. They elected to play. The Athletics took their places on the field in 'piled' shirts and straw hats and the rapiers that they cut set the crowd wild.

"Knoff and Fusselback were their battery, and while they were good enough to win an ordinary game, this was an extraordinary one.

"The Athletics hit George McGinnis for nine hits, but once on the bases they were done—they did not dare to take liberties in running.

Harry Stovey scrouped them up at first base, while Bunney Larkin managed to gather in nine out of eleven chances at second without splitting his clothes. Steve Corey was on third and Hank at short.

"The circus of that day was in left field, where 'Blondy' Purcell lived. Left field was wet and 'Blondy' attired in a light suit, white necktie and patent leather shoes, hesitated to take the plunge.

"Finally he rolled up his trousers and pranced about after such balls as came his way.

"Those who saw 'Blondy' that day remember his antics still, and those who did not see him but remember the man can conjure up the humnulate 'Blondy' doing this stunt.

"Coke Stricker and Coleman were in the other two fields. The first three innings failed to yield runs. We both scored two in the fourth inning leaving the score a tie.

In the sixth inning Tom Dolan drew a free pass, went to second on Latham's out at first, and scored on my single.

UPPER LEFT, Ty Cobb.
Upper right, Eddie Collins.
Center left, John Evers.
Center right, Sam Crawford.
Lower left, Charlie Dootin.
Center right, Jimmy Callahan.

"That's the way the game ended—Browns, 2; Athletics, 2."

Charley Dootin of the Philadelphia Quakers tells how his young pitching star, Eppa Jephtha Rixey, Jr., took off ten pounds in a Pittsburg hotel.

This is the way it happened: The management of the hotel declined to repair elevators on Sunday and for twenty-four hours not a wheel turned.

Now, Eppa was established on the ninth floor, together with Beals Becker and when he dined in one Sunday night, he took it for granted that Beals was in the room.

With a muttered remark about the thoughtfulness of hotel proprietors, Eppa started to climb the nine weary flights of stairs.

Panting and drenched with perspiration, he tried the door of 914. Horrors! It was locked!

Why, oh, why, had he not asked for the key as he came through the office?

Painfully, Eppa trudged down nine flights to the office. The clerk smiled sympathetically.

"Mr. Becker just took the key and I believe he started up that other stairway."

The weary collection once more climbed the nine flights, comforting himself with the many things he would tell Becker once he reached the top. Buckets of water! Becker was not at the top.

Again Rixey dragged his weary bones down those stairs. At the bottom he met Becker just starting up and collapsed in his arms.

BECKER HAD STOPPED FOR A DRINK OF WATER.

Becker explained that he had stopped to get a drink of water and the two trudged wearily up those nine flights of stairs to the feathers.

One of the most delightful things about Umpire Jack McCarthy, who is another character of the game, is his willingness to admit that umpires are human and therefore not infallible. Any old time Jack is willing to sit down with a bunch of friends and recall the times that he has erred. It is this frankness, this willingness to acknowledge mistakes—and they all make 'em—that accounts for his popularity with the players.

Jack may be dead wrong on a decision, but the players do not hold it against him.

McCarthy believes that he holds the world's record for making a wrong decision. He admits having called a man safe who, by actual count, was put out three times on the play. It was not due to any lack of ability on his part, but due to one of those peculiar and unexpected situations that make baseball the most fascinating of pastimes.

In 1907 McCarthy was officiating on the bases in a close game between Cleveland and New York on the former's grounds. Jack Sheridan was working behind the bat. It was the ninth inning and the score stood 1 to 0 in favor of Cleveland with two out. It so happened that Cleveland was fighting for the lead, and the home crowd naturally was not in a mood to give the progress the benefit of the doubt. Frankly, they wanted a snitch.

Joe Yeager of New York came to bat with two out. He rolled an easy grounder to Bill Bradley, the Cleveland third baseman. Bradley, with all the time in the world at his disposal, tossed the ball ten feet over George Stovall.

McCarthy, convinced that the sphere would not stop short of the bleachers, ran to second, expecting a play on Yeager at that base. Turning around, he saw Yeager hugging first, and naturally ruled him safe.

He was amazed to see Lajoie, the shortstop, and other infielders throwing away their gloves and starting for the club house.

There was an awful roar from the crowd.

"Say, Jack, you are missed that one," said Lajoie, walking over to McCarthy. Yeager was out three times. If they score a run in this inning we will have to carry you out of the park."

To make things as easy for McCarthy as possible, Lajoie plucked his glove and returned to second base. The other infielders followed his example, and the game was resumed with the stands in a turmoil.

Jimmie Williams smashed the next ball pitched to the right field fence for two bases, Yeager being held at third. A single meant two runs, the game for New York and enough treatment for McCarthy.

Jack was the most indignant person imaginable. He realized that he had slipped on the bases at first but was at a loss to account for it.

Jim McCarthy, the next man up, smashed a line drive at Ross, the same gent who is now pitching for Boston. Ross speared the drive with one hand, giving the game a spectacular finish.

Cleveland having triumphed, the fans, in their joy, forgot that such

at first, saw that it would be suicidal for Yeager to try to take second, and ran out in the diamond and stopped him by main strength.

Yeager was out because of Keeler's interference. Before Yeager could get to the base Stovall ran back and touched it. This made out No. 2.

Stovall then walked out and touched Yeager on the line, retiring him for the third time.

All this, of course, happened almost before you can bat an eye.

And Jack, poor geek, hustling down to second, was oblivious to the momentous series of events taking place behind his back.

COURT ENJOINS CAMNITZ FROM TAKING PIRATES

REGAINED BASEBALL IS VICTOR IN IMPOR-TANT SUIT

Judge States That Federal's Must Not Temper With Contracted Men

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 4.—Orthodox baseball won a victory here to-day when Chancellor J. P. Henderson gave a decision in the injunction proceedings between the Federal league and the Pittsburgh National league club, making permanent the injunction granted previously to the National league club against interference by the Federal league with players under contract with the Pittsburgh club.

The decision came after a three days' hearing in chancery court, with a big array of legal talent representing E. H. Camnitz of the Pittsburgh Federal league club on the one side and the Pittsburgh National league club on the other.

The court's decision and the long review of the case, totaling about 4,000 words, holds that a baseball contract is property and entitled to consideration as property rights; that no person has a right to induce a third party to break a contract; that interference with labor contracts will be enjoined; that a contract to induce a person to break a contract to the injury of a principal is malicious; and that a contract partly void by reason of being in restraint of trade is not wholly void.

More Money No Reason.

In his review of the case Chancellor Henderson said:

"Under the facts in this case the defendant knew the plaintiff was here making his men for the opening day. He came here to procure some of the players of plaintiff and offered them less than $1,000 in advance of their contract price with the plaintiff. He sought to induce the plaintiff to break their contracts with plaintiff and hire to his company. He was not to know it would work a great

CUTLER AND TERRORS WIN FROM OPPONENTS EASILY

Fountain Semipres Left, 17 to 2, to Falk's Outfit and Electrica Drop 11-4 to Ackerman

Coach Falk's young baseball musicians of Cutler academy journeyed to Fountain yesterday to play their first irregular game, and came out with the fat end of a 17-to-2 score. The Cutler team carried a big, black bat, belonging at one time to their erstwhile coach, W. W. Gall, and every player hit the ball so hard with the bludgeon that a farmer lad of the dry plains stole the weapon in the ninth inning, thinking that the game was over.

Lewis, brother of the famous Colorado college athlete with the coarsened hair, did the pitching, and those who saw the game say that the lad has considerable speed and smokes. Fisher caught. Jones, the leader of the band, played short and got six hits out of five trips one was a liner on the speaking tube.

While their enemies were toying away with the hicks, the Terrors were defeating Irv Hastings' humbug Electrica in Monument Valley park. Hastings was hit hard and Deal pitched good ball, the final score being somewhere about 11 to 4. The Terrors hit often and mightily. Bragg, the first baseman, connected for a trio of doubles, and almost all the players connected. Deal, the boxman, and not the shoeman, is rapidly gaining his old speed and control. Gray did the catching. Next to the work of the outfielders on the Electrica team, that of the umpire was the worst on the field.

The sporting editor of The Gazette was umpire for several long innings, and Hastings tried to get even for an error credited in a Zoo game last summer by driving a red hot liner at him.

The Terrors start their vacation Monday and are looking for games. They will play the Tigers probably Tuesday at Washburn field. Saturday they open the interscholastic season with Pueblo Centennial high school.

Injury to the plaintiff, I can see no purpose of the defendant except to employ plaintiff's players, and thereby deprive him of entering the baseball games as a competitor, and by reason thereof defendant's company would greatly benefit financially. It is just such a wrong as this a court of equity should not permit when appealed to."

OLD STARS OUTSHINE BALL PLAYERS OF PRESENT DAY

Clark Griffith Names His Choice of an All-Time Team; Comiskey First Real First Baseman

Here is the greatest baseball team of all time, in the opinion of Clark Griffith, manager of the Senators:

Charles Comiskey (St. Louis Browns), first base; Eddie Collins (Athletics), second base; Herman Long (Boston), shortstop; Jimmy Collins (Boston), third base; Bill Lange (Chicago), left field; Tris Speaker (Boston), center field; Ty Cobb (Detroit), right field; "Buck" Fawcett (New York), catcher; Amos Rusie (New York), pitcher; Cy Young (Cleveland), pitcher; Christy Mathewson (New York), pitcher; Walter Johnson (Washington), pitcher.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Baseball today is a faster, more scientific game than it was 25 years ago, but many stars of the old days outrank the brightest, shining satellites of the present age, in the opinion of Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington Americans, in an article on "Twenty-five Years in Big League Baseball" which appears in the April issue of the Outing Magazine.

Griffith, after declaring that he has been connected with the big leagues for 25 years, compares the different stars of the past and present and furnishes some interesting baseball history.

Charles Comiskey, now owner of the White Sox, is ranked by Griffith as the greatest first baseman that every held down the initial bag. Griff credits him with revolutionizing the system of playing first base.

Comiskey Saw Chance.

"He was the first man to see the possibilities of the position," writes Griffith. "Before his day a first baseman was only a basket. He stood glued to the bag, received the balls thrown to him, but never moved away. But soon after he got the first basing job for the old St. Louis Browns he was discovered playing about 10 feet back of the bag and about the same distance to the right. People thought him crazy and yelled to the manager to 'cut him.' Even his own team mates kicked. But the manager had confidence in the brainy Comiskey, and when he began to grab balls that formerly scooted off to right field for hits, and beat the runner to the bag with them, the jeers changed to cheers.

"This encouraged Comiskey to play even farther back and he finally forced the pitcher to do the unheard of thing of playing the first baseman's position when the first baseman was fielding the ball. So well did these innovations work that Comiskey soon had the other first basemen doing the same thing.

Griffith then stated that Anson, although a great player, was not Comiskey's equal, that Dan Brouthers, also a wonderful player, was rated under Anson.

"Until Hal Chase came there were no great first basemen during the intervening years, wrote Griffith. "Then there came three men who give promise of being even greater first basemen than those who have gone before. They are Jake Daubert of Brooklyn, 'Stuffy' McInnis of the Athletics, and 'Chick' Gandil of my Washington team. They are wonders."

Collins Greatest Second Baseman.

Eddie Collins, in Griff's opinion, is the greatest second baseman the world ever has known.

"When we consider Collins there is no use of talking about any other second baseman of the present day," writes Griff.

Griffith gives Fred Pfeffer of the White Sox, and Biddy McPhee of the old Cincinnati Reds, places among the greatest men that ever worked at the initial station.

"From their day until the coming of Collins, Lajoie, the big graceful Frenchman shone as the brilliant star.

"Herman Long, of the old Boston club, was the greatest shortstop I ever have known. Other men have come since his time and played the position in wonderful style, but Long in my opinion never has known an equal.

"Williamson, of the old White Sox was a wonderful shortstop in 1890. He used to play without a glove. Dahlen, Corcoran, Jennings, Wallace and Davis also were marvelous shortstops. And so is Wagner. Hans has a barrel of ability, but he is not such a foxy player as many persons think. But he is a wonderful batter.

McBride Defensive Star.

"On a par with Wagner I place McBride of the Washington club. He is the best defensive man in the business, but a weak hitter. If he could club like Wagner he would be the greatest shortstop of all time.

"Barry, of the Athletics, also, is a wonder, and Fletcher, of the Giants, is a mighty good man.

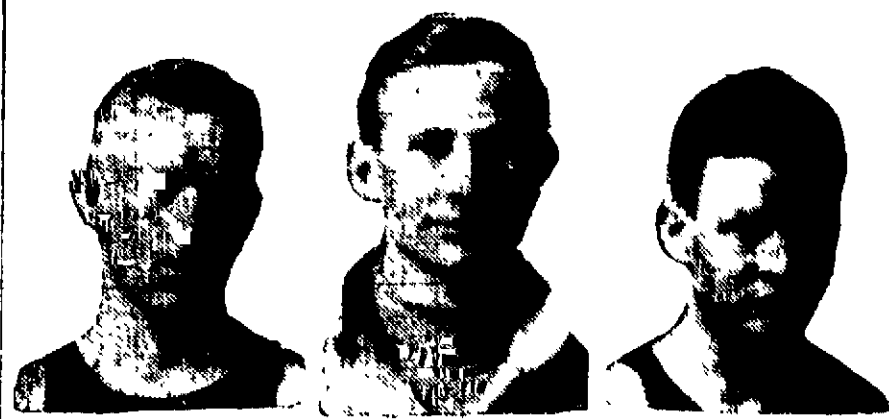

"Of all the third basemen I think McGraw and Jimmy Collins, of the Boston Red Sox, were the best. McGraw was foxier than Collins and a better batter, but Collins was the better fielder. He was the most graceful fielding third baseman the game ever has seen. And this gives him the edge.

Gardner of the Red Sox, Foster of the Washingtons, and Baker of the Athletics, are the only third basemen who can be compared to these two.

Baker is a poor fielder, he is awkward. But he is such a wonderful batter, that it lifts him up to the top notch. Foster is a foxy fielder, and a foxy batter—a great all around man. Gardner is a wonder, but not quite in Foster's class."

"A. Speyer is the most remarkable outfielder that ever lived," remarks

Tiger Athletic Schedule Starts This Week

The above three Colorado college athletes are on edge for the start of the various events on the conference schedule. They are, from left to right, Frank Hall, distance runner on track team; Frank Evans, star third baseman, whose hitting has shown great improvement over 1913, and Charles Johnston, high jumper on the track team.

The C. C. baseball team enjoyed its last free Saturday yesterday, having no games scheduled. Next Saturday the team goes to Golden to play the School of Mines and games have been arranged for every Saturday and holiday thereafter. Although the Miners have been at work since March 1, they are weaker than for several seasons and the Tigers should win, if Jackson is in condition.

The track team will have its first test on April 15 against the Mines team.

Football Star May Lose His Eyesight

NOTRE DAME, Ind., April 4.—Raymond Eichenlaub, giant fullback of the Notre Dame football team, is losing his eyesight, and unless the operation which he will undergo today proves successful he may never play another game. Eye specialists from Chicago say there is a chance to save his eyes.

Three weeks ago Eichenlaub caught the "pink eye." He neglected to treat it and Monday his right eye failed him. Now the specialists say the other eye has become afflicted. His parents were notified and they arrived here yesterday.

British Aviator Starts for Monaco in Great Race

LONDON, April 4.—Pierre Verrier,

British aviator, made another start at 6 o'clock this morning in his attempt to fly to Monaco. He is one of four aviators of Great Britain competing in an air race from seven different centers of Europe to Monaco. He carries a mechanic with him as passenger.

Verrier arrived at Calais at 7.57. According to the conditions of the contest, competitors starting from London have to make descents at Calais and at Dijon. Verrier descended and almost immediately rose for Dijon.

The aviators have 15 days in which to complete the flight from London to Monaco.

MURRAY FUNERAL HELD

CHICAGO, April 4.—The funeral of John S. Murray, printer of sporting publications and widely known among his men throughout the country, was held here today. Mr. Murray died on Wednesday.

Barney has "come back." His sensational return to form in the recent Santa Monica road races has put to shame corresponding efforts of comelack champions in all other branches of sport. He is a factor to be reckoned within Carl G. Fisher's annual motor marathon—if Cary Fisher will let the obstreperous Barney drive at all.

FLORENCE LOSES OUT IN PLAN FOR SOX GAME

According to word received by The Gazette last night from J. P. Nowell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Florence, all efforts to arrange for a game between the Chicago White Sox and the Denver Western league team have failed in spite of an offer of $1,000. The game was to have been played there tomorrow to substitute for the game scheduled for Friday, which was canceled owing to a rock slide.

Many Creeds in Gotham Favor Baseball Game

NEW YORK, April 4.—Sermons may be seen in baseball games as well as in stones. At any rate the Polo grounds should be one of the most popular meeting places of New York clergymen this summer.

John B. Foster, among perhaps to make the ministry popular, sent out 150 parsons yesterday to New York clergymen. All denominations were included but as in former years the Roman Catholic church maintained its supremacy in having the greatest number of baseball enthusiasts among its clergy.

MAGNATES IN COURT TOLD TO OBSERVE THE GOLDEN RULE IN BASEBALL FIGHT

Judge Tells Feds They Have Been a Party in Breach of Obligation; Killifer Decision in Ten Days

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 4.—Decision as to the winner in the first open battle between the new Federal league baseball league and organized ball as represented by the National league is now up to the umpire, Judge Clarence W. Sessions, of the United States district court for western Michigan.

Arguments of counsel in the case brought by the management of the Chicago Federal league to enjoin William J. Killifer from continuing in the service of the Philadelphia National league club or any other than the Chicago Federal league organization, were completed here today and the judge took the case under advisement. He announced he would not give a decision before next Tuesday and possibly for a week or 10 days.

While the counsel for the Federal league centered their attack on the reserve clause of contracts in organized baseball and the so-called 10-day clause permitting a club to dispense with a contracted player's services at any time after 10 days' notice, the issue went off at a tangent when Judge Sessions raised the question as to the Federal league's moral rights in the matter. Under hypothetical questions directed at counsel for the Federal league, the judge pointed out that Killifer and the management of the Philadelphia club are the parties to the contract containing the reserve and 10-day clauses and both have said they are satisfied. Further he referred to the Chicago Federal league club as an outsider, not a party to the contract, but nevertheless seeking relief from the court on a breach of the original contract, which it is offering larger inducements, might have inspired. He said:

"He who seeks equity must himself come into court with clean hands. You, having been a party to the breach of obligation, claim you are entitled to an enforcement of the contract, notwithstanding your action in that regard."

Judge Sessions questioned counsel for the complainant with regard to the knowledge of the Chicago Federal league club managers of the existence of the Philadelphia contract and reserve clause. He stated this was one of the complex questions of the case. He added the remedy sought by the complainants is extraordinary in the United States district court, that temporary injunctions are not granted except on a showing of absolute right.

Feds Claim Clean Hands. In defense of his position that the Chicago Federal league had come into court with clean hands, Mr. L. D. Gates, representing the Federal league, asserted that Killifer had discharged all moral obligations under it when he waited until January 11, 1934, before signing with the Federal league.

Attorney George Pepper of Philadelphia, representing the Philadelphia Nationals, took the other side. His argument was woven around the obligation. "Should the subject of an employee be entitled to equity in court?"

Attorneys for the National league club took occasion briefly to defend the reserve clause and the 10-day clause. It was brought out that the 10-day clause was eliminated from Killifer's contract and the reserve clause broadly amended subsequent to his signing the 1934 National league contract.

The complainant cited this as an evidence of error in the original form of contract. He also charged that owing to a reorganization and incorporation of the Philadelphia National league club the corporation now seeking to retain Killifer's services under the 1933 contract reserve clause is not the same company which was one of the parties to the original contract.

Among the interested spectators in court were Chief Justice President James A. Quinn of the Federal league, President Charles Weigman of the Chicago Federal league, and President William F. Baker of the Philadelphia National league.

Philly Airmen First Entrants in World Flight

NEW YORK, April 4.—The officials of the Aero club of America were advised today that Philadelphia wishes to have the distinction of furnishing the first entrant in the Pan-American exposition, round-the-world airplane race.

The Philadelphia men who communicated with the Aero club of America are Charles P. Wayne and Joseph A. Stimmitt, president and vice president, respectively, of the Aero club of Pennsylvania. They said Philadelphia would raise the $50,000 necessary for the entry if it could be arranged to make Philadelphia a stopping place, which the club officials believe can be done.

Of the total sum $35,000 is to be spent in aeroplanes and equipment and $15,000 to be offered as prize money to go to the first three aviators to reach Philadelphia in the race. This entry will not change materially the route of the race, it is already announced the Aero club explained. Nearly 40 aviators and others have advised the club that they intend to enter the race.

Pitcher's Magic Lay in Umpire's Sweater

NEW YORK, April 4.—Whatever they do, hitting the Sox has become a habit for the National league as explained by Dr. Yancy Wynn, a young pitcher of the Washington team struck out eight of the first nine men who faced him in the game Wednesday. This appeared to be a remarkable performance, but Robinson men showed how simple it was after all. You see it was all due to Nick Altrock's sweater, explained Norman Elberfeld. Nick was umpiring balls and strikes from behind the pitcher's box and he had on a long black sweater. The day was dark and the ball was muddy so the batters didn't have a chance to see it with that sweater in the background.

RITCHIE ENJOYS SELF IN GLENWOOD SPRINGS BATHS

Lightweight Champion Will Return After Bout With Murphy on April 17; Going on Stage Again

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., April 4.—While Ritchie, lightweight champion, left here last night at 10:15, via the Rio Grande, for San Francisco, after spending a few days here, taking the baths and enjoying a complete rest. He will reach San Francisco Sunday evening. Upon coming from the vapor cave, where he spent 30 minutes last night, he stepped on the scales and weighed 140 pounds.

"You can say for me that I was never in better condition for hard training than I am right now. Not only have the baths done me good, but I have had a mental rest which has been of great benefit. I will begin active training Tuesday for my bout with Murphy on April 17."

"I expect to win that battle, and will win just as quickly as possible. I have several offers for theatrical engagements to follow this contest, but am not sure which will be accepted first. I may enter the ring again during the latter part of June. At the very latest, July 4, I will then be ready to accept the best offer and I do not care who they put up against me. I expect to be back in Glenwood Springs in about three weeks for a stay of several days."

Ritchie was taken for an auto ride to Redstone yesterday, made two visits to the vapor cave took a plunge in the swimming pool and was the guest of honor at a trout dinner given in the evening by E. E. Lucas of the Hotel Colorado.

ROCKY FORD, April 4.—Sentiment against Sunday baseball has reached a high pitch in this city. At a meeting of the representatives of several of the men's bible classes of the Rocky Ford Sunday schools this week, resolutions were adopted and referred to the several schools for their consideration.

The resolutions have been presented to Manager Knause of the local team, and will be brought before the Sunday schools next Sunday morning. Manager Knause informed the committee that he would gladly arrange the schedule for weekday games if it can be done, and if the citizens will support a team. The outcome is being watched with interest by baseball enthusiasts all over the valley.

ALONG THE SPORTSMAN'S BEAT

SOME JUMP. A baseball magnate is a chump. To hold when his players jump: He is a foolish cuss. How tight would be his present woe Had he but felt the cruel blow That once befell us.

Upon our team in years gone by We had a puny little guy Who jumped and left us flat. He couldn't hit or field or punt. And yet, the gold darn little rascal He owned the ball and bat. —George E. Phair.

JOE JEANETTE is said to be jealous of John McGraw. Joe is knocked down twice as many times a year as Mac, but doesn't get anywhere near $30,000 for it.

AS NEWMAN was once a Brown, it's no wonder Fletcher hurt his knuckles when he hit him in the head.

SOME ball player could win a reputation for originality by slugging McGraw when he was looking.

THE FIRST tilt between organized baseball and the Feds will come in Baltimore, where the Giants will foregather with the Orioles on the day the outlaw season begins. Even money that rain wins.

THE Johnson-Moran fight is beginning to loom up like a real battle. The date is three months off, but they are already going into hysterics over the referee.

YALE and Princeton have adopted a new major sport. The stadium building schedule has been arranged and the race is now on to see which structure can be completed first.

THE QUESTION When Matty has pitched his last battle.

When Wagner has made his last hit, When Bender is back in the minors, And Plank has decided to flit, When Schaefer is staging his antics, To humor a few bush league dubs, When Leach has resigned from the Pirates, Will Taft still cling to the Cubs?

CHARLES E. Brickley will start his spring football practice today. He will be assisted by a lot of supernumeraries who are anxious to help the Harvard team.

AT LEAST, THEY SAY HE IS BACK. Oh, great was the fun when the Prodigious son Returned with his staff and his pack, But that wasn't in it, not even a minute, When Walsh and his arm came back.

FAWNCEY what a wondrous athlete E. Walsh would be if his arm were as indestructible as Ping Rodie's roof.

FULTZ STAFFS THAT WHAT IS NOT SURE OF RESERVE RULE

Head of R-U Players' Society Says They Will Wait Decision

Points Out Defects in Clause Causing Trouble for Baseball World

NEW YORK, April 4.—In answer to the charge that the Baseball Players' fraternity was not serving its obligations to organized baseball in refusing to advise its members of the reserve clause for their contracts, David L. Fultz, president of the organization, says in a statement issued today:

"The fraternity has been more severely criticized for not compelling its members to regard the so-called reserve rule contained in contracts organized baseball. We have refused to do this, for one reason, because we felt that we would be putting ourselves in a very questionable position by disciplining our members for doing something the law might decide they were not bound to do. If we taken this step, we would have the risk of not only being unfair to our members, but of subjecting ourselves to actions at law for disciplinary measures."

"If this very troublesome clause tested, as now seems likely, we have the result will prove that have been wise in the stand that have taken."

Not Enforceable, He Says. "The reserve clause as set forth in the two major league contracts for season of 1935, and under which players who have jumped to the Federal league must be held, if at all, identical and, to my mind, are unenforceable."

"There are two alleged defects in provision first, its inequitable nature in that it binds the player for his entire career, while the club is bound only for 10 days; and second, it is not to state what salary shall be paid under the contract to be entered. The first objection is somewhat involved, and does not need to be considered, as the second is sufficient vital to the reserve of any binding force. This clause reads, in part as follows:

"In consideration of the compensation paid to the player for the first part of the second part agrees and obliges himself to contract with and continue in the service of said party of the part for the succeeding season a salary to be determined by the terms of such contract."

"It can be easily seen that the vital elements of the contract, namely, the salary, has been left future negotiations. There is, therefore, no meeting of the minds of parties, and no contract agreed for the courts to enforce."
